AUDITOR'S REPORT

Norridgewock, Maine, Feb. 15, 1927.

I hereby certify that I have today examined the books of the selectmen, assessors and overseers of the poor and find them correct, with proper vouchers for all expenditures. I have also examined the accounts of the town treasurer and found them correct.

L. R. FOLSOM, Auditor

Report of Superintendent of Schools

To the Superintending School Committee and Citizens of Norridgewock:

One of the greatest gains to report to you this year is the establishing of our elementary schools on a thirty-six weeks basis. This will prove of inestimable worth in fitting our boys and girls for the more arduous tasks of adolescent schoolhood. In the past, the time lost by having a thirty-two weeks school year must have proved a decided handicap to our boys and girls who have entered the high school. Due to the generous attitude of the townspeople it has been made possible to give the elementary pupils this much needed service this year. There is a bill before the House in the present legislature to require that all towns maintain a school year of thirty-six weeks, and it now looks as if it will be passed. It should be gratifying to us to know that we are not one of the delinquents who must conform to this law in-the-making.

Aside from the regular supervisory functions incident with the office, but one special project has been undertaken this year. This has been the introduction of silent reading courses and the improvement of reading all along the line. In many of the schools where close cooperation has been obtained this work has become a part of the daily program and most effective results have been accomplished. Silent reading is not a new subject to be added to the curriculum but rather a means of teaching a method of study. When we consider that most of the reading done in daily life is silent, how little we can feel that we have done for the welfare of the pupil if we do not give him suitable training in this essential? Oral reading has been given due emphasis. It is hoped that each year a special study of some subject in the curriculum may be made and some progress made in its adaptation.

TEACHERS

Our new teachers this year have proved to be most desirable and have shown strength and leadership and ability in their duties that has been both inspiring and gratifying to all. To the teachers who have been longer in the system, I have only the greatest of praise. They have long ago proved their worth and we are most fortunate in being able to retain them.

There is need of another teacher in the high school. With an additional teacher for the high school, work could be carried on more effectively, and a more adaptable course of study planned.

COURSE OF STUDY

The course of study in the elementary schools has followed closely that of the state course. In order to increase the efficiency of our work, manuals have been prepared relating to school routine and preparation, and placed in the hands of the teachers. This has expedited matters of common interest that usually prove the most time-consuming. In the high school several changes have been made.

As individuals differ in their characteristics and in their tastes, so also must the plans and processes of mental development vary in order to make possible the best means for training children in such manner to develop their highest powers in order to make them the most useful citizens. It is not right nor necessary that each child take exactly the same subject throughout the school course. In most all of our schools there are to be found varied courses, and the right of choice is allowed to all students insofar as the course chosen does not become one-sided in its nature. In other words, there are opportunities for students in the high school to finish the course by different routes. The same thing is now permitted even in the grades. It is no longer thought necessary that each student shall complete the subject-matter just as it has been handed down through the traditions of the past. In keeping with this idea some attempt has been made to rearrange the course of study in the high school, to give it natural appeal, to influence the native tendencies of the student, and to bring about a development of, and interest in, community affairs.

Every boy and girl should know something of Nature's laws and how man's cooperation with Nature's laws makes the earth yield up her treasures to feed millions. Plant life and animal life both offer stores of a most interesting and practical nature. Hence, the introduction of a course in Civic Biology this year. It has justified the change that was made.

A well-rounded course in Civics seeking to develop civic pride and responsibility of home and community life has been another addition to help enrich the somewhat stale course of the past.

A most necessary change, too, has been made in our history courses. A course in U. S. History was added to the senior year and Medieval and Modern history was made optional in the junior year.

It would be a fine thing if the general course would include more of the commercial branches or be substituted by an agricultural course.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Since the whole child, physical, mental, and moral must go to school, it has been found necessary to make this institution responsible for his whole development. An individual must have a good physique in order to be a valuable member of society. Proper direction during childhood insures a healthy and strong body and develops a sense of health and habits of mind and body that will do much toward maintaining health and strength throughout life.

Our physical education program is not comprehensive enough as it has been projected during the last years. It needs to include athletics for both boys and girls with games, field sports for winter, and light gymnastics as supplementary aids in the recreational activities. This year the introduction of basketball with participation by practically every child in the community has done wonders in arousing a school spirit, in development of character and physique, and in lending incentive to better school work.

The present facilities are good for a more definite and adequate physical program. It is earnestly hoped that the townspeople will recognize our needs along this line. The state is ready to aid us to a much larger extent than we have yet asked.

REPAIRS

Repairs this year have included renovation of both the Atkinson and Frederick schools. In each of these the ceilings were partly plastered and the walls patched. They were painted inside and papered. Considerable work has been done in connection with the steam pipes in the high school building. Many of the radiators have become leaky and have had to be repaired and one new one bought. This with a few minor repairs constitutes the whole program for repairs.

Your attention is called to the village school and its present condition. Something should be done toward caring for these grades. The toilets are very unsanitary, they do not conform to state regulations and the lighting conditions are poor.

In fact with the exception of the high school building we are very far behind in this matter of caring for the out-buildings. Would it not be wise to make an effort to put at least one building in shape each year until these necessary repairs are taken care of?

HEALTH INSPECTION

Through the courtesy of the Somerset County Nursing Service we were able to secure the services of Miss Julia Wilson, the county nurse. She has rendered most valuable assistance in her work among us and will return in the spring to continue her work among the rural schools.

It would be possible to secure more of her time among us in connection with this work and have her visit the homes and hold clinics from time to time, by the raising of a small sum to help defray the expenses incident thereto.

Appended hereto is the report of the health nurse.

HEALTH INSPECTION BY COUNTY NURSE

Individual health inspection has been given to pupils in the village schools, this inspection including weighing and measuring of each pupil; inspection of teeth, throat, eyes and ears.

As soon as the weather permits similar inspections will be given the pupils in the rural schools.

170 individual pupils inspected. 127 found to have one or more defects. 186 total number of defects.

These defects include:

Teeth	88
Throat	38
Vision	21
Hearing	4
Eyestrain	6
10 percent or more underweight	26
Other	3

Respectfully submitted,

JULIA G. WILSON,

Somerset County Public Health Nurse

AUDITOR'S REPORT

Norridgewock, Maine, Feb. 15, 1928.

I hereby certify that I have today examined the books of the selectmen, assessors and overseers of the poor and find them correct, with proper vouchers for all expenditures. I have also examined the accounts of the town treasurer and found them correct.

Report of Superintendent of Schools

To the Superintending School Committee and Citizens of Norridgewock:

Having learned, through the initial year of supervision, some of the more desirable needs of our schools, we have moved forward toward the attainment of these needs with pleasing results during the last year. The function of supervision is always the improvement of instruction and the constant elimination of misapplied energy. Without losing sight of this function our aim has not proved an ignis fatuus but a real, tangible, workable project.

Our special project in reading, begun last year, has been carried out this year with ever-increasing efficiency. A state-wide drive has been made this year in reading, sponsored by the state department. We were most fortunate in being among the few school systems that had already taken up reading as a subject worthy of close supervision. This finds us well up in the front ranks in the teaching of silent and oral reading.

TEACHERS

The fine spirit of co-operation among teachers and their willingness to undertake new changes have made possible the introduction of music in the schools and progressive alteration in the course of study. We are most fortunate in having teachers of this type, who are forward-looking and who are not satisfied with mediocre work.

A new teacher of physical education was secured at the beginning of the year to handle the work of this department and to carry three subjects of the high school curriculum.

COURSE OF STUDY

The course of study in the elementary schools has been enriched by the introduction of music. After careful consideration it was decided that music instruction could be given through the use of the platoon system of teaching, without the cost of an extra teacher and only the initial cost of books, material, etc. This method was put into effect and the results obtained have been most gratifying. In the high school music has also been taught.

Several changes in the high school curriculum, in addition to music, has given the high school an increased standard of efficiency; and should make it possible for us to draw many of the tuition students who are now going from surrounding towns to some other high school.

Following is included the high school course of study as it is now designed to meet the needs of two classes of students; namely, those preparing to go to college and those who are not.

* Music will be elective in each year with credit toward graduation.

* Physical education will be required during all four years with credit toward graduation.

MUSIC

Such of the theory of music is now being taught in our schools as is concerned with notation, scale study, sight reading, and rhythm. Both individual and group work is carried on. At the beginning of the year there were several monotonies but these are rapidly improving. Victrolas are used in all the rooms for music appreciation and to teach the children rhythm.

In the high school music is elective. Next year credit will be given for this study toward graduation.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Physical education has been on a two-thirds time basis this year. A physical instructor was secured at the beginning of the year who has taken charge of this work. Since physical education has become a necessary part of the course of study, it must necessarily be adapted to the needs in the course of study. Each lesson in physical education has a specific aim adapted to the activity being used.

That physical education trains the human mind and serves as a physical and mental prophylaxis, alone justifies the attempts made by state and nation to require this subject as one in the course of study of schools and army training camps throughout the land. The plays and lighter gymnastics for the grades and hygienic lessons and the constant emphasis of these points of hygiene accompanied by heavier gym exercises and athletics for those of greater endurance and physical ability are the essential activities of this work. The work has been successfully carried on this year, and our facilities are good for well directed work within the town.

REPAIRS

Extensive repairs have been made during the year on the village school. The old partitions were removed, the lighting changed by closing one side and one end of the building and putting in mullion windows on the opposite side and end, and the chimney was taken from the center of the building and put in the end. The toilet was entirely rebuilt and made to conform with the standard as required by law. All new work has been primed and the building is now in excellent condition with the exception of a few minor repairs which were halted owing to lack of funds. We now have a fine, up-to-date school building which, with a coat of paint added, should make it an attractive and pleasant home for pupils and teacher.

A new heater was purchased for the village school, and the stove previously in use there was removed to the Oak Hill school. Both buildings are now adequately heated and the fuel expense reduced perceptibly.

There are now four rural schools still in use which do not conform to the standards as required by law. If the same appropriation is made as for last year, we should be able to continue with our plan of putting one schoolhouse in shape each year.

HEALTH INSPECTION

Last year the Somerset County public health nurse rendered valuable service in our village schools. During this year she has given us the service among our rural schools. In her report to the superintendent of schools she has given very definite information concerning her work of inspection. At the present time she is unable to cover the work of the village schools but states she will make inspection a little later in the year.

Appended herto is the report of the health nurse.

I hereby certify that I have today examined the books of the selectmen, assessors and overseers of the poor and find them correct, with proper vouchers for all expenditures. I have also examined the accounts of the town treasurer and found them correct.

L. R. FOLSOM, Auditor

Report of Superintendent of Schools

To the Superintending School Committee and Citizens of Norridgewock:

As a result of a self-survey conducted during the year we have been able to record improvement in our schools without theorizing and guesswork. Some progress is always apparent, but to the intelligent inquirer one must be able to present scientific and objective data which can be pointed out as definite proof of improvement. However, the results of a school survey are not measurable in a day, in a month, or in a year, and it is not only the tangible things but also the intangible that are important in a task of this kind. Any survey presupposes that a program of remedial work will be begun and followed up by careful checks and measures and that a second survey will follow. This is the method by which we hope to make progress in our schools.

EXPLANATION OF SURVEY

No attempt to offer recommendations will be made here where any follow-up work is necessary. Only those things which are obvious from objectives standards and which are needed to facilitate the operation of schools so that they may meet the needs of our community will be treated in this report.

EDUCATIONAL RESULTS

Achievement tests were given at the beginning of the year to all the grades. The object of these tests was to determine the exact status of each pupil in regard to his achievement ability. These were group tests administered by the superintendent and scored by the teachers. The scoring was entirely objective thereby eliminating the possibility of the personal equation. The results of the tests were interesting and illuminating. They showed that our pupils were consistently about five months below the class or grade normal as a whole, that many of the pupils were considerably above the average for their grades and some, as would be expected, were equally below the average for their grades. A diagnostic study of each individual was made and the results tabulated. A diagnostic sheet was put into the hands of each teacher and remedies suggested. For instance, when it was found that a pupil was poor in arithmetic computation and good in arithmetic reasoning, remedial work was directed toward improvement in arithmetic computation. Similar work was done with reading, and other subjects. Instead of saying that a pupil is poor in reading or arithmetic, as has been formerly done, we have gone to the heart of the thing and discovered his particular difficulty and attempted to improve him in his ability in that phase along with his regular work. This remedial work will continue throughout the year and then at the end of the year a second testing will occur and the results of our work estimated. One of the greatest benefits of this work has been in the increased interest of the teachers, their enthusiasm, and their endeavors to find improved methods and technique for solving their problems. Another pleasing sign is the interest that the pupils themselves took in these tests and their efforts for self-improvement.

One weakness disclosed by these tests is the fact that the average age of each class is apparently five months below the age norm for that grade. This means that there should be no letting down of the bars restricting entrance age. Our children should be older, not younger when they come into our schools. It should be borne in mind that only a few of our children at five years of age are gifted enough to take on first grade work as it is given in our schools where no kindergarten exists. This is the play age when development is characterized by more self-expression and freedom of action than is provided for in a school system where the child is first introduced to school by means of the first grade.

Another result of the survey has shown that pupils who rated high in achievement are usually those who are great readers, or who have developed a love for books. The correlation of achievement ability and reading appears to be high, while the correlation of intelligence and reading ability may be very low. This interpreted means that many very intelligent pupils care little for reading and therefore rate very low in achievement ability while an inveterate reader may be lower in intelligence but actually accomplish much more. The greatest lasting good that parents and teachers can do for charges is to inculcate the habit for reading good books.

ENROLLMENT AND ATTENDANCE

There are two hundred and eighty-two pupils enrolled in our schools. Attendance has been unusually poor during the year owing to the epidemics of chicken pox, whooping cough, flu, and measles. Through poor attendance the work of the teachers has been increasingly harder. Much time has been lost by sickness and other causes, and it has been necessary to give much individual instruction after classes.

THE TEACHING STAFF

Our teachers number one less than the previous year. There has been but two changes in the staff during the year. The survey shows that we have three college graduates of several years teaching experience, three normal graduates and three near-normal graduates and two with some summer school training, all of whom have had several years experience in teaching. They are strong teachers with enthusiasm and a desire to co-operate. The greatest possible success that may attend school work comes through the co-operation of teachers and school officers. Their willingness in this respect is commendable.

SCHOOL BUILDINGS

During the year our survey has shown that we have two buildings that are now meeting the requirements of lighting, sanitation and ventilation. One of these was completed this year, namely the village school. This is now the most complete and up-to-date of our buildings. A large slate blackboard was added to the equipment and lavatory and sanitary equipment installed. The building has been newly painted outside.

At the high school building it was found necessary to repair the back porch as it was in a badly dilapidated condition, and in order to continue on the approved list of A-grade high schools, our laboratory had to be enlarged and some equipment added. There is need of some new equipment and supplies for the laboratory even yet.

At the beginning of the year there was such a congestion in the first and second grade room that it was found impossible to continue the school without some adequate means of seating capacity. The old double seats that were there could not accommodate many more than half the number of pupils and there was no room left for effective school work unless a change was made. Accordingly it was decided necessary to purchase new single-seat, movable desks for these grades. These were obtained and set up at the beginning of the fall term.

There are three rural schools now operating which do not meet lighting, ventilation and sanitation requirements. If it is intended to continue these schools, something should be done about this. At the so-called Longley school toilets are in bad condition and the lighting is wrong. It will no doubt be a long time before this school will be discontinued, if ever, and I would recommend that something be done this year.

HEALTH SERVICE AND PHYSICAL EDUCATION

The past year has found this department of our work more or less engaged in much welfare work as well as the usual routine measures. At the beginning of the outbreak of diphtheria we called on Dr. Smith to take charge of the work in the schools and he gave unsparingly of his time and services in endeavoring to prevent the spread of the disease. Sanitation was looked after as thoroughly as possible with the facilities at hand and schools suspended when deemed advisable.

Physical education has been carried on much as last year with the addition of health lessons by the instructor. Teachers have worked untiringly with the chore cards in the hands of the pupils. Sight and hearing tests have been given and tabulations made. Follow-up work has not been done as much as we would like. Intelligent co-operation by parents will aid much in our efforts to correct defects.

SCHOOL FINANCES

In making estimates for school budget last year we took into consideration reductions that might be effected in some departments, such as in conveyance and teaching. Unfortunately we were disappointed in this, as we found that increases had to be made in conveyance at the last moment owing to the fact that families moved into town late in the summer and settled in isolated sections. These situations had to be met and consequently our school appropriations were insufficient.

A situation that has existed for many years which makes it necessary to stop payment of bills before the closing of the fiscal year is hardly warrantable. Would it not be well to make an appropriation to cover all expenses to the end of the fiscal year and then begin the new year with a clean slate. It should be remembered that it is impossible to do this in any other way, as in making a budget we provide for only the school year, and when there are two or three weeks carried over, unpaid, to another year, these cause us actually to close earlier than the fiscal closing.

Owing to discoveries made in the survey our appropriations should materially decrease from year to year, hereafter.

HIGH SCHOOL

No radical changes have been made in the high school during the year. Our course of study is as complete as is possible under the present schedule. We have attempted to distinguish between the general and the college preparatory courses by diversified subjects and some latitude on the part of the pupil in the general course. Previously the two courses were largely parallel. It would be an immense benefit if one or two typewriters could be added to the equipment of the high school and some practical experience in office work combined with the now theoretical and practical classroom study of business forms.

The present enrollment of our high school numbers 67. This is nearly the same as it has been during the last three years. Each year we graduate from ten to twelve students who go out into the businesses of life as employees. They are a part of the four million young people in our high schools today. If we could send some of these boys and girls from high school to college it would relieve for the time being some of the unemployment so that families would have greater comforts, and the future earning capacity of these boys and girls would be enhanced considerably. Each year there are several graduates who could continue on to higher education with credit to themselves and honor to their town. To bring this about will require more concern in the home, more instilling of the desire for knowledge and the early establishment of a goal to be attained through mutual understanding between parent and child.

I appreciate the present friendly attitude of the townspeople and wish to commend them for the lively interest shown in our schools during the year. The success of our night school venture is fitting testimony of the real interest of the community in their schools.

Following is the estimated budget for another year and the financial statement of the year closing.

Preserve This Report

A sufficient number of these reports have been printed to furnish every interested citizen with a copy. An effort has been made to get them into the hands of the voters in advance. It should be borne in mind that if copies are left at home there may not be a sufficient number at the hall to go around on town meeting day. This year or any year it is desirable for you to have a copy of the annual report as soon as issued. It is also important for you to preserve it and bring it with you town meeting day morning.

Auditor's Report

Norridgewock, Maine, Feb. 15, 1930

I hereby certify that I have today examined the books of the selectmen, assessors and overseers of the poor and find them correct, with proper vouchers for all expenditures. I have also examined the accounts of the town treasurer and found them correct.

L. R. FOLSOM, Auditor

Report of Superintendent of Schools

To the Superintending School Committee and Citizens of Norridgewock:

ACHIEVEMENT AND REORGANIZATION

Norridgewock's achievement in education is due largely to the delightful feature of public spirit shown by our clubs and social organizations in sponsoring certain phases of education. Our parent-teacher meetings are a creation that have tended to bring mutual understanding in place of doubt and disbeliefs and will eventually help solve many of the problems of home and school.

Our school board is made up of members who are efficient, heroic, and who seek for stability and virility and marketable achievements that will benefit boys and girls after graduation.

Our community should demand all the vocational and social education that it needs. These two trends of education have slight use for all of the academic methods which teach subjects rather than boys and girls; which makes so much of what the student learns of the long ago rather than preparation to interpret how to make good use of the life he will live in the near future.

Last year's report of our schools contained a very lengthy statement of school conditions and of the efforts that were being made to investigate and analyze the true situation with a view to real achievement in our educational program. Few recommendations were made because it was not the intention to form hasty judgments but rather to so gather information and scientific data enough to bear proof that desirable changes are warrantable.

Our testing program has been continued this year and supplemented by the use of ability tests. These tests that have been continued this year show conclusively that our teachers are obtaining results with the majority of the pupils, that our class average and class median has made appreciable gain in all the rooms, that our diagnoses and remedial measures were invariably correct and that teachers' and superintendent's estimates, though fallible, are more reliable when based on the facts presented by the tests than when the tests are not used. The ability tests introduced this year have made it possible for us to recognize the ability of the individual student and to expect from each student a grade of work commensurate with his ability. It is interesting to note that invariably parents have a tendency to rate their child higher than their teachers rate him. The ability tests were given to the high school pupils as well as to the grade pupils. A summation of the results of the scores for the seventh, eighth, ninth, tenth, eleventh and twelfth grades is worthy of our consideration. The standard grade norm for these scores in the order named is 68, 89, 104, 122, 138, 147 while the scores for the class median for the same grades in the order named were 52, 71, 93, 113, 106, 192 respectively. One interpretation of these results leads one to suggest that we have very wide variation of ability and we may well ponder as to whether we are meeting the needs of these different abilities as much as we possibly can.

When we consider that our seventh and eighth grades offer only the purely academic subjects and that our high school does the same thing in a slightly modified form, it becomes apparent that we are maintaining our schools at a maximum cost with minimum profit. What leads one to believe this? Simply presentable facts gleaned from careful study of our educational position. They are these. It is known that only about ten percent of our students are of the academic type, that less than ten percent of our pupils ever continue their academic studies after leaving high school, that the community absorbs about ninety percent of its students after graduation in the trades and businesses that is the life of the town, that this ninety percent is untrained and unfitted to meet well the needs of the community unless they are taught to make good use of their lives through social and vocational training. We are looking well after the ten percent of the group but the other ninety percent are drifting and we have the awful responsibility of their future welfare.

We may well say, "What can be done about it?" The solution is this: Reorganize our school system making our seventh, eighth, ninth, tenth, eleventh and twelfth grades into a six-year high school, introduce vocational work of the home arts type for girls and of the manual arts type for boys, offer the college preparatory course for those preparing for college and drop the general course which has no purpose that cannot be met by the three courses above mentioned. No additional teachers will be needed to do this. A teacher of manual training may well handle the physical education and a home arts teachers will have ample time to teach several subjects in the high school. Both teachers would be half time teachers in their specialties. The cost for maintaining a high school offering these courses would be no greater than the present cost and we would have an educational system surpassed by none in the state of equal size. Two-thirds of the cost of a teacher for manual training is subsidized by the state and one-half the cost of a teacher for physical education is also subsidized by the state. This means that the cost to the town for a manual training teacher would be slightly over $800. And the cost to the town for a teacher of home arts would be $800, this, too, being subsidized by the state to an amount equal to two-thirds the total cost of a teacher. The cost for teachers under this reorganization plan would be less than the present cost for teachers.

To carry out such a plan as this, manual training can be taken care of in the matter of housing in the basement of the high school building. Room for domestic science work would have to be provided elsewhere.

There would be, of course, an initial cost for equipment, etc., which would need to be provided, but over a period of ten years the actual saving to the town for teachers would more than cover the cost this year of getting started. To look back ten years hence and say to ourselves, "We have builded and enjoyed this system for ten years without any additional cost and with untold profit to our boys and girls," would be a source of civic pride and happiness that is well worth the effort necessary to accomplish this thing.

THE TEACHING STAFF AND PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Several new teachers were secured this year to take the places of those who resigned. They are interested in their work and have their schools under good control. A spirit of professionalism seems to pervade the rooms and fine cooperation is evinced by all. No request appears to be too onerous for them and they have taken on voluntarily many additional duties.

It is fitting that the janitor should be included in this heading. Perhaps there is no one person who has greater responsibility or who exerts a greater influence upon the children so many hours of the day than does the janitor. His floors must be immaculate, the temperature of the building kept at an even temperature to safe-guard the health of the pupils, and he must be a person of powerful influence for good over the children at all times. There is no person who is a greater deterrent to vandalism than is the janitor. It is the nature of boys to cut, carve and to destroy unless these tendencies are directed into better channels by the refining influence of strong character. That powerful instinct of imitation, however, can be made use of by understanding minds, and neatness, cleanliness and proper deportment soon take the place of vandalism and vulgarity. It is impossible for me to fittingly express the appreciation of the importance of a man like our present janitor, Mr. Brackley.

At the request of the superintendent of school mouth hygiene examinations were made of all the students in the Norridge-wock schools, by the Maine State Department of Health, Division of Hygiene. We have aimed in this phase of health work to create an incentive for the student to secure dental corrections and to establish the habit of regular semi-annual visits to the dentist.

The regular physical education work has been carried out along corrective and preventive lines. The work in corrective posture by the physical instructor has been most gratifying this year.

The most serious contagious disease this year that has affected attendance to any appreciable extent has been the whooping cough epidemic. Several minor ailments have occurred and the school physician has been called to handle these cases.

Somerset County now has a school health nurse available to all towns. It would be a very desirable plan to raise Norridge-wock's quota again and allow us to call the nurse in on cases along with the school physician.

SCHOOL FINANCES

One of the greatest achievements of the year has been the accomplishment in our financial situation. We have not only investigated every source of income and brought more revenue from sources that were not supplying just amounts, but, in the face of several slicings of our school appropriations we have paid for thirty-eight weeks of school instead of thirty-six. We have been enabled to do this for these reasons: We have found that our high school is operating at an average cost per pupil of eighty-eight dollars and we have raised the tuition charge to eighty dollars. We have found that past records have not shown that the Withee and the Old Point schools have been reported closed, thus causing a reduction of two hundred dollars in the amount due us from the state. These items and a general increase in the amount of equalization coming to us this year swelled our resources considerably more than ever before.

If the appropriations asked for the coming year are allowed, we shall be able, no doubt, to repeat our accomplishment of this year, and we can then have our financial account running on a thirty-six weeks basis and closing co-temporary with the fiscal report.

SCHOOL CONVEYANCE

School conveyance this year has been very satisfactory. For the first time in our history, all conveyances are of the covered-type. All drivers are good reliable men who are doing excellent service in conserving the health, comfort and general welfare of the pupils. Because the State Department of Education recognized and approved of our plan for more efficient means of conveyance, the State Commissioner of Education has had the state treasurer draw us a check for $310 for the purchase of a school bus body. This check has been received by us and credited to our account. The body has not been paid for yet owing to the lateness of receiving the bill from the Oxford Body Company. This will be paid from our account of the coming year.

In closing I wish to express my appreciation of the able support of the superintending school committee and of the general interest of the townspeople in their schools.

Following is the estimated budget for another year and the financial statement of the year just closed.

RAYMOND S. FINLEY,

Superintendent of Schools

Selectmen of Norridgewock

The selectmen will be in session at the selectmen's office, in said town, on said third day of March, 1930, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, for the purpose of correcting the check list.

Preserve This Report

A sufficient number of these reports have been printed to furnish every interested citizen with a copy. An effort has been made to get them into the hands of the voters in advance. It should be borne in mind that if copies are left at home there may not be a sufficient number at the hall to go around on town meeting day. This year or any year it is desirable for you to have a copy of the annual report as soon as issued. It is also important for you to preserve it and bring it with you town meeting day morning.

Auditor's Report

Norridgewock, Maine, Feb. 14, 1931.

I hereby certify that I have today examined the books of the selectmen, assessors and overseers of the poor, and find them correct, with proper vouchers for all expenditures. I have also examined the accounts of the town treasurer and find them correct.

L. R. FOLSOM, Auditor

Report of Superintendent of Schools

To the Superintending School Committee and Citizens of Norridgewock:

This report aims to present to you some of the accomplishments of the past year and to point out some of the desirable features in our reorganization program as well as to urge consideration of several worthwhile projects for the future.

ACCOMPLISHMENTS AND INNOVATIONS OF THE PAST YEAR

Our school was re-organized on a six-six year plan last year and two new courses were added to the curriculum. These courses have added interest to the program, developed talent that has brought keen joy to pupils who have longed for some outlet of expression whereby they could become creative, and have helped to show to parents and teachers that the emphasis in education must be placed on the development of the individual rather than the accomplishment of an immediate task.

The course in manual training includes woodworking, wood finishing, and some household mechanics. The course properly should include considerable work in glazing, soldering, thread cutting, wiring of electric lamps made by the pupils, fundamental work in batteries and other electric appliances, and mechanical drawing. As our facilities increase it should be easy to include many of these subjects for study and application.

The work in home economics is so comprehensive that one can hardly realize the opportunity for the individual to develop skills, knowledges, and abilities that is offered without reviewing the activities in this course. Foods are studied in relation to health, composition, their service to the body, buying, and the planning and serving of meals. Clothing is studied with relation to buying, care of articles, texture, laundering and designing.

The close correlation of these courses with many of the subjects in the school curriculum; such as mathematics, physics, chemistry is apparent. In this respect all subjects become more meaningful to the pupil.

The assembly which comes one period a week is an innovation that approximates if not excels any other activity in the school curriculum.

Here is a form of recreation where participation is the keynote. Too many persons seek pleasure only by absorbing, never by creating. While a certain amount of such recreation is desirable and wholesome, it is far more valuable that one play games than that he sees them. Personal talents are wasted unless cultivated and expressed. Persons who have never experienced the thrill of having created something have never known the meaning of real pleasure. The purpose of the assembly is to bring pupils together to enjoy and participate in instructional, recreational, or inspirational programs, such as plays, talks, songs, debates, exhibits and any other organized program.

The assembly program is used as an aid in producing a spirit of co-operation and ability to get along well with one another, in developing ideals and habits and abilities that will produce social beings who will make the most of themselves in life.

The public school attendance has been remarkably good during the year. The number of pupils attending school has increased and the average attendance for the year reached the highest point in our history.

The average cost per pupil has been somewhat reduced during the last two calendar years. In 1929 the average cost per pupil was $69.54; for 1931 the average cost per pupil is $62.93

RECOMMENDATIONS

In our program of re-organization we have reached a point where it is desirable to perfect each detail of the mechanism so that maximum efficiency may result from the effort. To do this the following needs are apparent:

Our library facilities are inadequate. Particularly the high school needs to provide a room with suitable tables and bookcases, newspapers and periodicals. Our high school belongs to the class A group of approved schools, but does not meet these requirements as set up by the state department. In addition to the above the state department sets up as definite requirements an income of $1.50 per pupil enrolled but not less than $75.00 for any school.

There is no greater need in our high school today than a suitable room with a small share of the necessary books and material so necessary for efficient work in the high school.

Our laboratory equipment should be carefully considered and provision made for ultimate usefulness. There is no sink in the laboratory and no water supply to it. This is admittedly the biggest handicap for purposes of chemistry. Any outlay, however, should be carefully considered as the lighting and space arouse grave doubts as to what can be done in order to warrant expenditures for permanent equipment.

It is recommended that the laboratory and library needs be given major consideration this year and that some measure be taken toward establishing real library and laboratory work as a fact in our schools.

At our village school near the railroad safety measures should now be taken to prevent injury or death to the pupils of the third and fourth grades. There appears to be an urgent demand for a fence around this school to protect the children from the traffic of the street and track. Many parents have expressed themselves in favor of constructing such a fence, and it is recommended that some action be taken at our annual town meeting toward providing suitable protection.

FINANCES

This year we have been able to pay for thirty-six weeks of teaching and all other bills incident thereto with the exception of conveyance. Conveyance is unpaid for two weeks which amounts to approximately $200. Noting that the ideal budget should show the amount due to February 15 at which time the fiscal report should truly close, shows that $1,291.66 would be required to complete the fiscal year, or the sum of $2,127.32 will be due to teachers and conveyance and superintendence March 1, 1931.

Last year you were assured that our reorganization program would not entail increased expense to the town. To show you that this is now a fact and not a theory, it is necessary to compare the appropriations of 1930 with the recommendations for 1931. In the necessary appropriations for 1930 there was appropriated $12,200 for schools. This was the amount necessary for expenditures under either the old regime or the new. This year it is necessary to appropriate the sum of $11,310 plus $1,000.00 for vocational courses. These added call for an appropriation of $12,310 or an increase of $110.00. However, when we deduct six percent from our state school fund of $3,000 as the projected deduction for next year we see that our actual cost for next year calls for exactly $70.00 less than formerly.

In closing the Longley school last year a saving of approximately $450.00 has been affected. According to law it becomes necessary this year for the citizens to vote where or not this school shall remain closed.

It is fitting to comment on the excellent support and whole-hearted enthusiasm of the school committee in carrying on the affairs of the school during the past year, and it is sincere regard for the best interest of all the children that has directed their course of action.

The townspeople have shown a vital interest in our schools and have helped immeasurably in producing a responsive helpfulness within the school itself.

Following is the estimated budget for another year and the financial statement of the year just closed.

RAYMOND S. FINLEY,
Superintendent of Schools

A sufficient number of these reports have been printed to furnish every interested citizen with a copy. An effort has been made to get them into the hands of the voters in advance. It should be borne in mind that if copies are left at home there may not be a sufficient number at the hall to go around on town meeting day. This year or any year it is desirable for you to have a copy of the annual report as soon as issued. It is also important for you to preserve it and bring it with you town meeting day morning.

Report of Superintendent of Schools

To the Superintending School Committee and Citizens of Norridgewock:

The superintendent of schools has the honor to present his first annual report.

INTRODUCTION

The goal of education must be the ability and desire of persons to co-operate in securing the highest social good in human society. Thoughtful citizens recognize this aim and find the economic experiences of the past two years of deepest significance educationally. The solution of the present day problems appear ridiculously simple when one considers the possible changes social and economic of the next twenty years. Through a diversified curriculum based upon cardinal principles, our 353 school children are being prepared to meet those changes. Education is focused for the most part upon these objectives; they all extend throughout the entire length of our school system. These basic factors: health maintained and improved by means of supervised play activities, corrective and preventive exercises; knowledge of the fundamental processes; encouragement by precept and example to become worthy home members; vocational guidance in theory and practice; good citizenship training for the worthy use of leisure time; development of character.

The small school system, through its intimate contacts with elemental features of life, is itself a potent educative force. Under wise and progressive guidance the small school systems in years ahead should surpass the achievements of its long past. In order that the future citizens may find themselves unhandicapped in the terrific competition, the outlined purposes of education are invaluable; eliminate or endanger any single objective and much is lost. Deep concern is felt for our pupils in face of the following: requirements for admission to professions are properly becoming more exacting; the biggest blot on the machine age and a constant threat to economic safety is the irregularity of employment; the practice of completely discharging all employees when they reach the age of fifty years is followed by many concerns of national importance.

Again, the individual student is less likely to be submerged in the small school system. The obvious fact that individuals differ wide, in their interests and capacities and in their corresponding needs has arrested the attention of parents and educators. It is no longer thought to be desirable, as it was never possible, for each student to learn the same subject in the same amount as every other. Teachers now realize they must learn the student before they can teach him.

Education is put on a scientific basis; so vital is the work of the school that nothing can be left to chance. Our two new departments, now finishing the second year of fruitful effort, are definite proof of fact. Unfortunately parent and friend visitations are rare; visitors are always welcome. A brief summary of the work of the two departments is necessary. In home economics all work of home making is placed upon a scientific and dignified basis. Girls are so trained that they will take as much pleasure from home work as they would from getting up a church supper or attending a club meeting. The girl who looks upon the kitchen as a laboratory; who understands the chemical, bacteriological, and physiological principles which are involved in all that takes place there, and who regards cookery and whatever that goes with it as a fine art, will not be exhausted when she spends an hour or two in the kitchen, and she will not feel that she is doing menial things when she gives attention to the sanitation, decoration, transformation of a house to a home.

I quote a section from the teacher's report of the work: "Hot lunches have been served daily during the winter term. This project has been carried on by junior and senior girls, two girls at a time have the full responsibility of planning, marketing, preparing, serving and keeping all accounts for a two week period. This has proved satisfactory as well as beneficial to those who require and wish for a hot dish at noon. An average of fifty to sixty students have been served daily. The approximate cost has been five cents a serving."

Many kind friends have donated to the two departments though the students have bought many things for themselves. The Home Economics Club corresponds to the Junior Women's Club. A breakfast set was purchased for the dinette, a two years subscription to the Home Economics Journal, two Thanksgiving baskets were sent out, and toys were sent out by the members to the Sea Coast Mission.

For safety and sanitary improvements, the manual training department was moved to the village school and the third and fourth grades were placed in the high school building. A course in mechanical drafting was added. The Shop Foreman plan is followed—one of the students takes charge of the class under the supervision of the instructor. This gives various students an added sense of responsibility, encourages thoroughness and order. A student thus employed is able to look at the question of employer and employee from both sides. It gives him a better understanding of human nature and some opportunity to judge workmanship and ability as associated with character.

The boys of this department have been able to do some work around the school buildings. They aided in the construction of the fence on the west side of the school grounds; a concrete walk was built at the front entrance, the Village Improvement Society furnishing the cement, the use of several trucks donated and the work done by the students. Other school projects have been postponed until warmer weather.

Several fine gifts were received: two friends gave ten dollars each; other financial aid helped equip a saw table; cedar and stone posts were donated by several different citizens; other organizations sent substantial sums of money for hot lunches. New music books and the repair of school victrolas were made possible by the fund secured by teachers.

Attendance has been excellent; teachers have made exceptionally fine efforts to aid the students. They have attained a satisfactory result.

Repairs the past year included making all necessary improvements at the Oak Hill school with the exception of a much needed new floor; the Atkinson school was partly shingled; the Frederick school was re-papered at the joint expense of town and students and the ceiling patched; it was found necessary to construct two door openings at the high school building in order to reduce dangerous situations; an old boiler, out of use for twelve years, was removed from the cellar; the basements were whitewashed and painted.

A sink has been secured for the laboratory; adjustable seats for grades three and four are to be delivered soon; a covered extension to the rear piazza furnishes a coat room for the primary grades.

RECOMMENDATIONS

The surplus noted in the financial statement is made up largely of the remainder of the state fund to be used exclusively for laboratory and library purposes. The present laboratory must be enlarged; certain books, specified by the state will be bought.

For your further consideration a chart of the present school enrollment is given. Your committee is of the opinion that this problem should be solved within a year's time.

DISTRIBUTION OF NORRIDGEWOCK STUDENTS 1931-32

School	Grade	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12
High		35	36	27	28	20	22	19	17	27	22	22	20	295
Atkinson			3	2	2		6		2					15
Frederick		7		5	2		3	3						20
Oak Hill		2	2	2	3	1		7						17
Off-route		1	1	2	1	1								6
Totals		45	42	38	36	22	31	29	19	27	22	22	20	353

Total enrollment: 353, including 25 high school tuition students, five of whom are seniors.

The chart indicates the upward trend of the school population; there is clear indication that within a short time our present facilities will not accommodate our pupils. An increase of 114 students over the 1926 enrollment, and since 1929 a gain of 71, is sufficient to demonstrate the rate of gain within the past few years. These facts should be kept in mind and some decision reached before next March. In the meantime it should be noted that greater economy and efficiency could be secured through consolidation; that the abandoned rural schools, because of state requirements, could be put in order only at prohibitive expense.

FINANCES

All expenses for the school year were paid in full and a small balance, designated for a definite purpose, remains. Your committee and superintendent, as the guests of various organizations, have analyzed in detail the necessity of the various expenditures. Only by thoughtful planning and hard work have we kept within our budget. An increase in enrollment for the coming year is certain. Because of the nation-wide financial difficulties, we cannot afford to penalize the present school generation and deprive them of their fair share of educational opportunity.

The income from tuition students totaled over two thousand dollars; half this amount could be credited the vocational courses, and since the state gives approximately two thousand dollars to the town's one thousand, the vocational courses are self-sustaining. Were we not to raise five hundred dollars for physical education, it would be necessary to raise one thousand dollars for an unsubsidized course; the state matches our appropriation and enables us to maintain a class A secondary school at a smaller expense. Should both vocational and physical education be eliminated, we should be obliged to appropriate two thousand instead of fifteen hundred dollars, and offer our students nothing but strictly academic training.

Your budget committee after a careful analysis of the problem voted to accept the estimate totaling $11,310.00 and allow the school committee to cut from that one thousand dollars wherever they could. The remaining appropriations to stand.

All conveyance drivers and teachers are under contract to the end of the year; the amount saved must come from the September to March expenditures.

Your school committee has co-operated whole-heartedly; the townspeople have been most kind and thoughtful regarding the continued welfare of our schools. Such thoughts and actions I appreciate.

Your attention is called to the following estimates and financial statement.

Preserve This Report

A sufficient number of these reports have been printed to furnish every interested citizen with a copy. An effort has been made to get them into the hands of the voters in advance. It should be borne in mind that if copies are left at home there may not be a sufficient number at the hall to go around on town meeting day. This year or any year it is desirable for you to have a copy of the annual report as soon as issued. It is also important for you to preserve it and bring it with you town meeting day morning.

Report of Superintendent of Schools

To the Superintending School Committee and Citizens of Norridgewock:

I have the honor to submit my second annual report, together with the reports of the Vocational Educational Department.

In the opinion of a recent writer, it was a shame that this depression should have come right in the midst of hard times. Reflection upon this statement shows it to have other than humorous meaning. If by hard times, we understand the inevitable reaction that follows a period of excessive prosperity, and by depression, the despondency, and lack of mutual confidence that the reaction produced, we may very properly lament the last of these results that accompanied the first.

All social life, all stability and progress depend upon each man's confidence in his neighbor. Local problems of even greater magnitude than those that now confront us have been solved by several generations of thoughtful hardworking citizens and capable courageous public servants. With courage, sanity and friendliness we must work together to continue the maintenance of our schools on a high standard in the face of a necessary reduction in the school income.

Satisfactory standards of accomplishment were maintained in our schools the past year. Teachers did their work faithfully. Symbolical of their future civic pride many students entered into the spirit of co-operative effort to improve the physical surroundings of their respective schools. It is only when the appearance of the premises is a source of pride that the future citizen truly respects his school. Although such an effort has not always been consistently foremost in the Norridgewock schools, many times it has been stressed. The beloved Alice K. Folsom, in her school report of twenty-five years ago, urged the citizens to co-operate in making Arbor Day one to be remembered with gratitude. On the last annual observance of the day, high school students made permanent improvements of such a nature that the school yard somewhat approaches the orderly appearance of the rest of the street.

Previous school reports have emphasized the necessity of larger quarters to care for the ever increasing enrollment. Overcrowding has added much to our educational difficulties.

Under date of March 28th, 1932, Harrison C. Lyseth, state agent for secondary education, summarized his report on the high school building:

"It is quite probable that unless changes are made for better high school conditions than those existing at present, the Class A rating will be removed on the basis of Section 7, State High School Manual, Part 1, giving the three year period for improvement of conditions."

Financial conditions prohibit an increase in the expenditures for the coming year. Prohibitive expense and recent state laws made the re-opening of abandoned rural schools impossible.

All necessary repairs were made; the basement laboratory was enlarged; the Sawtelle Fund income aided in completing the payments on the Americana Encyclopedia bought two years ago.

PROPOSED LEGISLATION

Your attention is called to the following items: there is little doubt regarding the successful legislation.

Loss in state income will reduce our apportionment of the State School Fund approximately eighteen to twenty percent. If the proposed tax on tobacco is successful, this loss will be off-set.

Reduction for subsidies for special courses will be ten percent for the first year of the biennium and twenty percent for the second year of the biennium.

Not later than July 1, 1937, towns are to be re-grouped into larger school unions.

FINANCES

All bills pertaining to the schools were paid promptly during the fiscal year ending February 10th. The state equalization fund received was to be used for the maintenance of the salaries of teachers. This sum with donations made by school officials and teachers totaled an amount equal to ten percent of the annual wages. Conveyance drivers, hired as the law directs, voluntarily accepted ten percent reduction on the previous contracts.

The budget committee recommended a twenty-five percent reduction on total of last year. Decrease in income, counting the probable loss from the state, will be in excess of $4,000.00.

You will note the article pertaining to schools calls for $9,800.00, a sum covering all items formerly listed separately. Cutting the school budget is a delicate form of surgery that calls the highest skill and the greatest caution. Bungling surgery will mar hopelessly the future of several hundred children. No loss of educational efficiency will be incurred providing the expenditures can be undertaken only by those best informed—the superintending school committee. Delayed knowledge of the prospective appropriations and the probable amount of state aid prevented definite programs and estimates being presented at this time. The two standpoints of the new program will be education and economy; our common goal will be that which is of the greatest benefit to the boys and girls.

Your co-operation the past year is greatly appreciated.

PHILLIP H. WOODWORTH,

Superintendent of Schools

REPORT OF MANUAL TRAINING DEPARTMENT

Attention of Superintendent Phillip H. Woodworth:

Herewith is submitted my annual report of the Manual Training Department.

It is interesting to note when we speak of our present machine age and the effect it seems to have upon labor, that even as perfected as the machine may be, it is dependent upon man. Man created the machine to do his work, but the machine is dependent upon man for its continued operation and production.

So we find that man is called upon to apply his skills and abilities, so respected in the era of hand labor, with perhaps a greater degree of skill and accuracy at the present time than before.

Earning a living, whether with the aid of a machine or with his own abilities and knowledge, demands certain qualities of the workman. It is with these qualifications, abilities and skills in mind that the student applies himself in his manual training.

That the students are progressing in their work is evidenced by the increased complexity of construction in many of the projects undertaken. Students are willing to work at something requiring more careful workmanship, greater accuracy and a higher degree of skill.

In connection with the above, the State Department of Education tells us that eight-six boys out of every one hundred who graduate from high school, start from there to earn a living. This does not take into consideration the large percentage who enter school never to graduate. From the above figures it is evident that the majority of students should have an opportunity to learn something of a practical nature.

The woodwork is supplemented by a course in drafting and mechanical drawing. Few of us realize the important position held by drafting and how closely we come in contact with it. Each new machine or improvement is first conceived in the mind of man and is exhibited as drawing. Our homes and their equipment, from kitchen to bedroom pass through the drawing stage.

It is satisfying to see the interest shown by most of the students and as a study for the young man of the secondary school it seems to fit into his general education better than many other subjects.

A summary of the course as offered may be of interest to the uninitiated.

The first year is devoted to shape and size description, lettering and some scale drawings. Thirty sheets are planned as the work of the year, with the majority of sheets giving three views of the object.

The second year calls for "Pictorial Drawings", that is: isometric, oblique, cabinet, and perspective. Some time will be given to sheet metal drafting including development of elbows and intersections.

Mechanical drawing and Machine Details will be studied the third year. Included in this will be Standard Threads, Bolts and Screws. Detail and Assembly Drawing will take the greater part of the year together with the study of conventional representations.

Architectural Drafting will be offered the fourth year. Each student will complete the plans for a single story structure, drawing elevations and sections. If time permits, some study will be made of building details.

Work has progressed well the first half year with nearly all the students completing the required work. The sheets are so arranged that students may work as rapidly as their abilities permit and by doing so, opportunity is given to do extra sheets. Several students have taken advantage of this and have extra work to their credit.

Respectfully submitted,

CHARLES F. LANDERKIN, Instructor

REPORT OF HOME ECONOMICS DEPARTMENT

To Superintendent Phillip H. Woodworth:

Following is my annual report of the Home Economics Department:

The purpose of this course is many times misinterpreted. Many still think that home economics means merely cooking and sewing, or learning how to make a cake, to make a dress and the like. In fact by some it has been limited to making patchwork and that this can be easily learned in the home, and why not? Surely, if that is all that the course offers to a girl undoubtedly this could be learned at home.

The purpose of this course is to contribute to the general education of girls, (and to boys, if possible), through the following objectives: (1) To help boys and girls in their personal problems of right living. (2) To provide opportunity for developing appreciation of the contribution of well-adjusted individuals to the home, the school and community. (3) To give information which can be applied toward self-improvement physically and ethically. (4) To develop an appreciation and broad conception of home-life and home-making and wholesome attitude toward home and family.

Each boy and girl comes in contact with home-life in some way and needs to study it. This course does not stress the manual side of home life entirely, but does stress a conception of the social, economic and cultural aspects of everyday life.

Briefly each class in thus engaged: The work of the seventh grade girls deals principally with foods and clothing. Their work in foods deals with health mainly—discussion of the causes of the different diseases, a study of the classes of foods, their function and sources of each. What constitutes a wholesome breakfast and luncheon. Why a girl needs a wholesome breakfast in order to start the day in right. Table service and etiquette are carried out through mock breakfasts, luncheons, and occasionally a real meal is served.

The clothing course includes a review of the simple stitches (learned in the sixth grade) in the making of a simple problem. The making of models of the different seams, the cutting and applying of true bias, the use of the sewing machine, the commercial pattern and finally the cutting and making of some article of underwear, pajamas, or school dress.

The work of the eighth grade is divided into three units: (1) Foods and marketing; (2) home-making and first aid; (3) clothing and textiles. The two main projects in the foods course is the planning, buying, preparation, and serving of wholesome lunches and dinners.

A continued study of the food values is made and the principles in cooking such foods as vegetables, meats, protein cooking—quick breads, yeast bread and simple dessert—is discussed and as far as possible these foods are prepared in class.

The cost of food is studied—how to buy and causes of “leaks” in buying.

Finally, the kitchen is given attention as to interior finish, selection and arrangement of equipment, convenience in relation to other parts of the home. Plans are studied and scored and as a final problem each girl plans a kitchen applying the principles mentioned.

Home nursing and first aid—study of home and community sanitation, home care of the sick, care of the sick room, general care of the patient, bed, and administering of medicine.

The course in clothing and textiles is a continuation of the course in the seventh grade. A study of the fibres is made—as to cultivation, manufacture, types and uses of the staple fabrics on the market. Points to look for in buying ready-made garments. Cost of ready-made versus home-made garments. The principles of good design in choosing a pattern for ready-made dress.

The Freshman girls who take the home economics course have been studying “The Girl and Her Home”—which deals with the management of the home, i. e. what makes a house a home? Contributions of the members of the family; development of desirable character traits, necessity of co-operation, and that of assuming responsibility. Then Home Finance, a study of the sources of income, to realize the responsibility a girl or boy has for asking for money, if it is for the best good to all members of the family, to consider living according to a plan—the budget and keeping accounts, the making of budgets for various types of families with limited incomes, the need of a family council in discussing all the problems that each member of the family comes in contact with. Child Care—the effect of heredity and environment on the child—the physical, mental, social and spiritual development of the child during the first five years of his life. Home Furnishings—making the home an attractive place wherein to live, not necessarily through buying expensive furnishings, but by neatness and orderliness, by the application of the principles of good design through the making and hanging of draperies, selection of pictures, wall and floor coverings and so forth.

The Sophomore Nutrition class this year has had very few lessons in cooking, principally because of the expense. The application of the good principles has been developed in the planning, preparation and serving of the hot lunch at noon. These girls have learned to plan simple, well-balanced meals, thus guarding against symptoms of the deficiency diseases. Special emphasis has been given to the subject of buying—guarding against “tricky” advertisements to detect quality in products—charge versus cash in buying. The need of a plan in doing the day’s work in order that there will be time for the activities that both children and adults need to meet outside of the home in order that their mode of living be the finest type of American homes.

The Junior and Senior girls have been studying textiles the first part of the year, and are now studying dress construction. Some are cutting and making garments for themselves, others are making (little) suits and dresses for small children—having made a study of the fibres—the steps in the development of the raw material into a fabric. How to detect materials and the history of the textile industry.

A few weeks were spent at Christmas time on decorative stitches. Samplers were made and each girl made a problem applying some of the stitches learned. Very attractive pillow slips of Italian cutwork and hemstitching were made, also luncheon cloths and napkins with colorful appliqued motives were made. Special lessons on bound buttonholes, set in pockets, use of the sewing machine attachments have been developed. Models are made, as many of these special problems are later applied in the making of garments. Home practice has been requested in some of the lessons. Reports being made when the problems are completed. Such lessons as laying the table correctly for five suppers according to the menu, keeping accounts of the money spent on food purchased for the week, discussing later if spent in right proportion for the needed various foodstuffs, keeping of personal cash accounts, preparation of foods, the general care of own room for a week, the care of the smaller children in the family.

"What functions in the life of a student is only that information which is understood which one is taught to use and finds opportunity for using".

Respectfully submitted,

MILDRED H. MacINTIRE

Selectmen of Norridgewock

The selectmen will be in session at the Selectmen's Office, in said town, on said sixth day of March, 1933, at ten o'clock in the forenoon for the purpose of correcting the check list.

Preserve This Report

A sufficient number of these reports have been printed to furnish every interested citizen with a copy. An effort has been made to get them into the hands of the voters in advance. It should be borne in mind that if copies are left at home there may not be a sufficient number at the hall to go around on town meeting day. This year or any year it is desirable for you to have a copy of the annual report as soon as issued. It is also important for you to preserve it and bring it with you town meeting day morning.

Report of Superintendent of Schools

To the Superintending School Committee and the Citizens of the Town of Norridgewock:

I hereby present my first annual report of the financial and scholastic status of the schools.

We do not need to be reminded that we have been passing through difficult times. Every enterprise has felt very keenly the effect of financial embarrassment. School systems the country over have been seriously handicapped, and in many instances severely crippled, by the shortage of funds. When we consider the many factors tending to increase the demands placed upon the public purse, and the greatly reduced incomes, especially of the rural communities, we are thoroughly agreed that economy should be the platform of every public enterprise; economy of the type that forbids the expenditure of funds for questionable values. We are not yet out of the economics difficulties. We must continue to base our expenditures upon limited resources for some time yet. But, in view of the fact that the tide has apparently turned, and the trend is upward rather than downward, it is well that we give careful consideration to true values.

The taxpayer may justly demand conservatism in the school system. The expenditures of the past year are convincing proof that there has been little extravagance; that every dollar has been carefully invested. We are confident, however, that every thoughtful citizen is aware of the possibility of a false economy; a reduction of expenditures to the point that it becomes a waste of funds rather than a saving. The demands made upon the school system are increasing each year. The enrollment is increasing, since more parents, and more boys and girls are realizing the value of education. Deprived of the opportunities which are rightly theirs, they will be unable to stand the competition of our complex economic and social life, and many of them will be failures.

Looking back through the records of the high school, we are surprised to find that only an occasional graduate has gone on to institutions of higher education. The great majority have settled down to local positions on the farm or in the shop. It seems all the more essential, in view of this fact, that the school should provide as much as possible in the way of industrial or vocational courses. Education is of value only as we find application for it in daily life. The pupil who has been taught to use his hands as well as his head finds a wider application for his training. The home is the nucleus of civilization. The girl who has learned to make a home has acquired a real education. In a farming community what could be more practical than the incorporation of agricultural studies in the manual arts course? The cost of these special courses, considering their extremely practical nature, and the number of pupils enrolled in them, is indeed small. It would certainly seem an investment returning real value for every dollar invested.

The over-crowded conditions of the village school building is a matter of universal agreement. Satisfactory results are impossible under such conditions. Your teachers have worked hard and faithfully, but they are working against too great handicaps. The plan approved by the town for the addition of new classrooms should solve the housing problem for quite a number of years, and provide a school system, at very small cost to the taxpayer, that will be thoroughly satisfactory. In all probability it is the only way, financially possible to retain a grade A high school with tuition income, much longer.

We have included in this report only those items which would seem to be of interest to the majority of the citizens. We would respectfully call attention to some of the items in the financial statement at this time. In spite of greatly reduced income and resources, the school account carries a net balance. All outstanding bills are paid. In order that this might be effected, the school committee very generously refused to accept remuneration for their services, and, this in spite of the great demands made upon them this year. The teachers have willingly contributed two weeks' salary to the budget, and we take this opportunity to express appreciation of their gift. In spite of these donations it was necessary to reduce the school year to the minimum legal length of thirty-two weeks. We trust that it will be possible to replace the lost weeks at an early date, before too much time has been lost.

The shortage of textbooks has prevented the offering of some courses which should be included in every curriculum. The expenditure for books has been comparatively small, in view of the fact that several sets of books are nearly worn out and others beyond any use. It would indeed be an economy measure to provide the necessary textbooks.

We have only commendation for the work of the teachers throughout the past term, those new to the system as well as those of longer service. Each has worked hard and faithfully for the good of the school. Under the principalship of Mr. Hamm we feel confident that the high school has shown excellent progress. Included in this report is a section from your Principal, dealing with the work of that department. We also commend to your attention the reports of Miss MacIntire and Mr. Landerkin on the work of the vocational courses.

In closing we take this opportunity to express our appreciation of the loyal support of the school committee and the time and energy which they have so generously given the schools. We would also thank each and every teacher for the co-operation shown throughout the term, contributing so much to the success of the school year. We appreciate also the attitude of the citizens toward the schools, and trust that, with this continued co-operation the balance of the school year may be yet more successful.

Respectfully submitted,

I. E. ADAMS,

Superintendent of Schools

REPORT OF PRINCIPAL OF HIGH SCHOOL

To the Superintendent of Schools:

Following is a brief statistical report of the high school and its various functions.

Average attendance for fall term:

Seventh grade	20.3
Eighth grade	19.5
Freshmen	23.1
Sophomores	24.5
Juniors	20.3
Seniors	19.3

Enrollment by towns:

Norridgewock	113
Mercer	17
Smithfield	9

There have been but few cases of pupils absent on account of illness, the majority of the absences being due to work at home and difficult traveling in cold weather for students living at a distance from the school.

The teaching load for the six grades included in the junior-senior high school is carried by five teachers. Two of the five teachers are engaged full time in teaching special courses, manual training and domestic science. This leaves three teachers to carry on the academic and general courses for six grades. Alternation and rotation of subjects is used in order that twenty-four classes can be taught by three teachers and abide by the state requirements.

In regard to the amount of home study which is done by the students it would appear to be absolutely necessary that some home study be systematically carried on if the students expect to make a real success of their high school work. The amount of home study required will depend on the nature of the course and the ability of the student; no student should try to get along with less than one hour of concentrated effort, while many need three hours.

The extra-curricula activities include the Student Government Association which includes all the students of the junior-senior high. The Student Council; the Home Economics Club; Debating Club; Prize Speaking for juniors and sophomores; Dramatics; School Orchestra; Basketball and Baseball.

The school has joined the Bates Debating League and will debate the question of "Government Control of Radio", in the Bates Interscholastic Debating League. Schools met in discussing the question for debate will include North Anson Academy, Good Will High School, Bingham High School and Solon High School.

REPORT OF MANUAL TRAINING DEPARTMENT

Norridgewock, Maine, Feb. 19, 1934.

To the Superintendent of Schools:

Following is my annual report of the Manual Training Department.

Work has progressed very satisfactorily the past year. There has been a fifteen percent increase in enrollment this year which necessitated dividing one of the grade classes in two divisions. Some very fine projects have been finished this year in the woodworking classes and others are under construction.

Those which have been finished include: sewing cabinets, medicine cabinets with mirror in door, bookcases, bedside tables, ironing boards, radio end tables, taborets, stools with upholstered slip seats, toboggans and many smaller projects.

Students in the high school are taking the second year drafting for the first time and some fine sheets have been drawn. Many students show unusual ability in this work and one student is seriously considering making this his life work. Three factors which determine the value of a drawing are neatness, accuracy and cleanliness and these in turn may be applied to many other lines of endeavor.

Supplementing the woodwork in the eighth grade, a course in natural science was introduced at the fall term. The first period rope work was studied. Each student making long and short splices, spliced eyes and whipping the ends of a rope. To complete the study each student made a rope lead halter.

Following this soil has been studied. The work has covered the formation, types, properties and the points to consider in judging a soil. Some study was made of crop rotations, plant foods, both natural and artificial.

Plans are being made to test some of the soils in this vicinity for acidity and possibly some other properties. Cold frames and hot beds are being studied, also the value of the home garden.

Some of the major crops will be studied and also various types of grafting and pruning.

It is the hope of the department to acquaint the students with some of the occupations of this community and interest him in further study along the lines of his choice.

Respectfully submitted,

CHARLES LANDERKIN,

Instructor

Preserve This Report

A sufficient number of these reports have been printed to furnish every interested citizen with a copy. An effort has been made to get them into the hands of the voters in advance. It should be borne in mind that if copies are left at home there may not be a sufficient number at the hall to go around on town meeting day. This year or any year it is desirable for you to have a copy of the annual report as soon as issued. It is also important for you to preserve it and bring it with you town meeting day morning.
